

NEW COURSE starting SPRING 2014

TIBETAN

EALC-I30 BEGINNING TIBETAN I
680 LEC TR 4-6PM
CROSS LISTED: EALC-530

I CU
DUCKWORTH T
MAX W/CROSS LIST: 18

This introductory Tibetan class will explain the fundamentals of the modern Tibetan language in its literary and spoken forms. Students will develop the ability to read the Tibetan script and identify and analyze Tibetan grammatical forms. Students will also learn conversational Tibetan, and be introduced to the structure of spoken grammar and its pronunciation. This class will provide a foundation for reading Tibetan literature, both classical and modern, and for speaking Tibetan, a language that lives in Tibet and in diaspora communities around the globe. Learning the fundamentals of Tibetan language in this class will open a window into a rich and colorful culture, the unique culture of Tibet.

This course is offered by Penn Language Center at the University of Pennsylvania.

Go to <http://plc.sas.upenn.edu> for more information.

